Agency Description

VOYCE advocates for the health and wellness of individuals who live in long-term care communities and helps individuals in need of care options make a well-informed decision. We serve all residents in long-term care, which can include seniors or individuals living with disabilities. We train ombudsmen to identify issues, isolate particular causes of concern and skillfully resolve any challenges with compassion and respect. We also provide free assistance to individuals and families facing long-term care decisions.
